“The Coded Message”

Resistance to the invading Nazi legions was an idea shared by Jews and non-Jews alike. Every overrun country developed an “underground” or partisan movement that fought back with both violent and non-violent actions. One experience all of these people shared was the need to send messages and information to each other in coded form. Most of the time, these messages were one or two sentences that gave an important name, date, meeting place, or arrival time.

Your mission (if you choose to accept) is to create :

1. A two sentence message (based upon the ideas presented above)
2. A code by which the message is to be sent
3. The translation of the message into its coded form

It is our hope that in doing this project, you gain an understanding that sometimes people are called upon because of circumstance to do extraordinary things.

May God insure that we are never put into this position! Amen...

Thank you,
Mrs. W. and Mr. K.
